Amidst the many environmental and societal problems that our world is facing today, there is growing awareness and recognition in both academia and society that economics should aim to foster human well-being. But if so, why is the dominant approach to human behavior in contemporary economics still that of homo economicus – an ego-driven being pursuing wealth only for his own self-interest?

Funded by the Goldschmeding Foundation, a two-day international symposium is organized by the Institute of Leadership and Social Ethics to address this question, exploring an alternative anthropological paradigm called homo amans – a relational being driven by the universal traits of faith, hope, and love.

The symposium hosts several international keynote lecturers and respondents, aiming to engage around 40 scholars representing various academic disciplines in both the humanities and natural sciences to discuss the status and future study of relational anthropology in contemporary economics.
...exploring an alternative anthropological paradigm called homo amans – a relational being driven by the universal traits of faith, hope, and love.

Speakers

PROF. DR. PATRICK NULLENS
Patrick Nullens is Professor of Systematic Theology and former Rector of the Evangelische Theologische Faculteit (ETF), Leuven, Belgium. He is the co-founding director of the Institute of Leadership and Social Ethics, located at ETF. He also serves as extraordinary Professor of Christian Ethics at the Faculty of Theology of North-West University, Potchefstroom, South Africa.

PROF. DR. DEIRDRE N. MCCLOSKEY
Deirdre McCloskey is Distinguished Professor of Economics, History, English, and Communication at the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC), USA, where she taught from 2000-2015. During that period, she also served as Adjunct Professor in Philosophy and Classics at UIC. She is currently Distinguished Affiliated Fellow of the F. A. Hayek Program for Advanced Study in Philosophy, Politics, and Economics in the Mercatus Institute at George Mason University, Virginia, USA.

PROF. DR. WESLEY J. WILDMAN
Wesley Wildman is Distinguished Professor of Philosophy, Theology, and Ethics in the School of Theology at Boston University, Massachusetts, USA. He currently serves as convener of the Graduate School’s doctoral program in Religion & Science, and is also founding co-director of the Institute for the Bio-Cultural Study of Religion.

PROF. DR. REBEKKA A. KLEIN
Rebekka Klein is Professor of Systematic Theology, Ecumenism, and Dogmatics at the Faculty of Protestant Theology at the Ruhr-Universität Bochum, Germany. There she also serves as the Director of the Ecumenical Institute.

PROF. DR. COEN TEULINGS
Coen Teulings is the former director of the CPB Netherlands Bureau for Economic Policy Analysis and the Tinbergen Institute. For many years, he served as Professor of Economics at the Universities of Amsterdam and Cambridge. He was recently appointed distinguished Professor at Utrecht University, the Netherlands, in the Faculty of Law, Economics, and Governance.

PROF. DR. JOKE VAN SAANE
Joke van Saane serves as Professor of Education Theology and Religious Studies and Psychology of Religion in the Faculty of Religion and Theology at the Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam, the Netherlands. She is also the Vice Dean of Education.

PROF. DR. GERRIT GLAS
Gerrit Glas holds a chair in philosophy of neuroscience at the Amsterdam University Medical Center (previously VUmc) and the H. Dooyeweerd chair in Christian Philosophy at the Faculty of Humanities at the Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam, the Netherlands.

Registration
- Please confirm your attendance at info@etf-ilse.org, stating your surname, first name, title, affiliation, date of birth, and country.
- Peace Palace, Carnegieplein 2, 2517 KJ, The Hague (The Netherlands)
- Please note that valid identification is required at the Peace Palace.
- etf-ilse.org